Hidden Treasures

Introduction

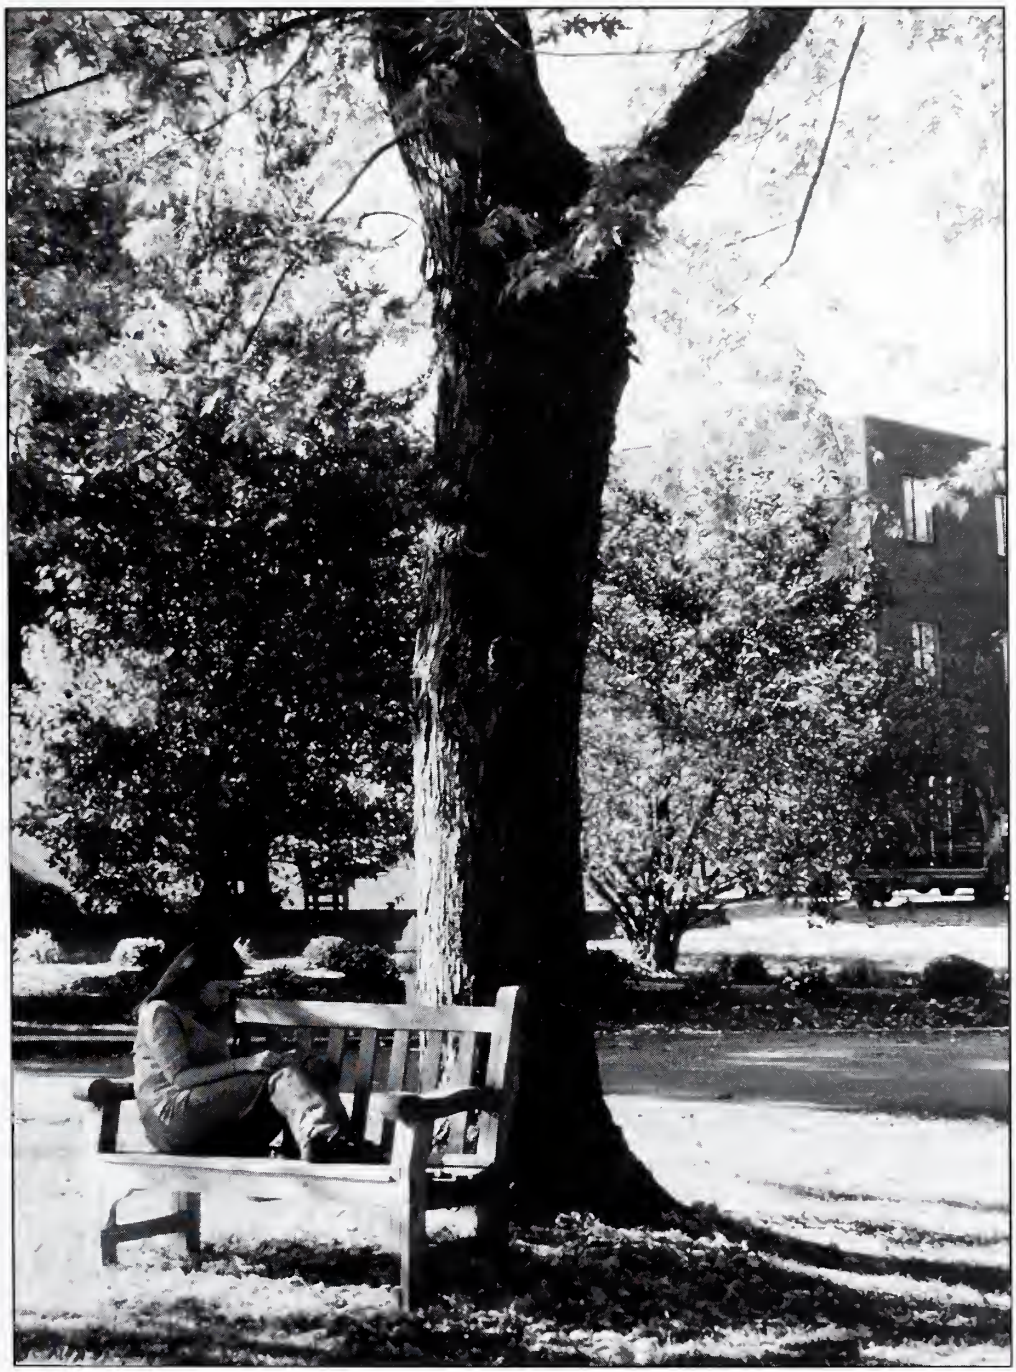

Campbellsville University was named one of the southeast's "hidden treasures" in 2000 by KAPLAN/Newsweek honoring schools that aren't as well known as they should be. The university was also named one of the top schools that offers a "high level of individual academic attention from faculty."

Hidden treasures are everywhere on our campus; they exist in the faculty and staff and especially in the students. There is a family atmosphere that makes everyone feel welcome. The chance to make friends is abundant.

The university also offers much academically, athletically, creatively and in activities. The campus itself has plenty to give. It is particularly beautiful during the fall.

President Michael V. Carter said in convocation that we needed to take the "hidden" out of "hidden treasures." As a university, that should be our goal. Everyone should know what we have to offer.

Kickoff To A Big Success

Welcome Week

"New, traditional events" were brought to Welcome Week 2000 by Andrew Ward, the new director of student activities. Ward said the Welcome Week events were a "big success."

It all began on a quiet Sunday afternoon as new and returning students joined in the courtyard for the ice cream social. Later at sunset, everyone went to the University Theater for the Sunday Night Explosion. It was a night of fellowship, worship, skits and music.

More activities were presented Monday. Freshmen had an opportunity to meet and fellowship with upperclassmen in the Campus Comrades Kickoff. One of the more popular events was the Welcome Back Dance which followed the kickoff.

Tuesday brought the Baptist Student Union Block Party where food, folks and fun were the main attractions. Continuing CU's fifth-year tradition, hypnotist Fredrick Winters returned to play with students' minds and make them look foolish by performing activities one wouldn't normally do.

Wednesday presented competition in Dorm Wars. Nascar Night was Thursday as race cars were brought on campus.

The Dave and Ed Show was live on Friday. Students performed lip sync selections to different music.

Week of the Champions

Freshman Week

Freshman Week, held during the first week of the fall semester, allows incoming students the opportunity to meet other freshmen and also to intermingle with upperclassmen.

This year's Freshman Week featured a number of activities, including the Cookout with the President, Freshman Auction, Hawaiian Karaoke, "Who Wants to Be A Millionaire?" and the Treasure Tree.

Freshman Week began on Monday with a cookout at the home of President and Mrs. Michael V. Carter. The cookout was a time for new students to fellowship with the president and his family.

On Tuesday was the Freshman Auction. The freshmen were put upon a podium and bids were taken out for them. Upperclassmen, who got the highest bid, would "claim" the student as a "slave" for a day.

Wednesday night's activity, Hawaiian Karaoke, gave students an opportunity to perform songs. "Who Wants to be a Millionaire?" was played Thursday night. The event was similar to the popular TV show.

Summing up Freshman Week was "The Treasure Tree." Students were randomly drawn from the audience, then they were pulled on stage. On stage the students were asked to do unbelievable tasks, all competing for a chance to ride a tricycle across the stage to rip money from "The Treasure Tree."

Carter Is Inaugurated

Inauguration Day

Friday, September 15, 2000 was not only a special day in the life of Michael V. Carter, but for Campbellsville University as well.

Carter, 46, was inaugurated as the 10th president of Campbellsville University at the ceremony at Campbellsville Baptist Church. Two of the university's former presidents, Dr. W.R. Davenport and Dr. Kenneth W. Winters, presented Carter with the university chain of office and mace, respectively, during the ceremony.

Davenport was president of Campbellsville University from 1969 to 1988, and Winters was president from 1988 to 1999.

Highlights of the service included a personal challenge to Carter by Dr. J. Cordell Maddox, president emeritus of Carson-Newman College, where Carter served 14 years as academic vice president.

The Inaugural Address was delivered by Dr. E. Bruce Heilman, chancellor and president emeritus of the University of Richmond and a CU alumnus and a Board of Trustee member. Heilman said of Carter, "Because of his presence, there is excitement in the air and confidence for the future." Heilman said he was "proud to acknowledge this University's conspicuous past, to highlight some of its current virtues, and to speculate on a future which promises to be among the finest years in its history."

Heilman's theme was "Vision, Leadership, Momentum and Results." – Jenny Wilder

The Fabric of Family

Family Weekend

"Families of our students are important."

That's why Campbellsville University donates a weekend, entitled "Family Weekend," to celebrate the concept of family and CU, according to Joey Foster, director of development and alumni relations.

This year's celebration, Sept. 29-30, focused on "not only bringing our university family together, but also to bring parents, brothers, sisters and grandparents together," said Foster.

Friday night events included a picnic, a pep rally and a concert. During the picnic, students took part in games, President Michael V. Carter greeted all those attending and Reflections, a group composed of Campbellsville University students, performed. Reflections consists of Rachel and Rebecca Pavy and Sarah and Hannah Daugherty.

Following the picnic, Head Football Coach Ron Finley and Dr. Ted Taylor, Tiger spirit coach, led a pep rally to get everyone excited about the Tiger football team playing Lambuth on Saturday. The Tiger cheerleaders and Tiger Marching Band also participated.

New Horizon, a group of university students, performed on the courtyard, closing out Friday's events. The group consists of Russ Funk, Zack Rice, Brandon Carrier and Scott Burress.

Saturday, before the football game, there was a tailgate party, attended by about 200 people, more than double last year.

"I think the weekend was successful, and there were some new things that I hope will continue to grow in the future," said Foster.

Hangouts

When reminiscing on past events, you usually always think of a.) who you were with and/or b.) where you were at. College hangouts take up so much of our time, ('cause c'mon, it's not like we actually study or something!) that the yearbook staff wanted to dedicate a few pages to some of Campbellsville's most unforgettable hangouts, and, of course, all the friends we made along the way.

Theology Dedication

Heritage Day

Campbellsville University dedicated the School of Theology during the annual Heritage Day service at Campbellsville Baptist Church.

"Today, we have set aside this day to dedicate the Campbellsville University School of Theology. This day symbolizes our commitment to continue to take the Holy Scripture seriously and as reverently as possible," said Dr. Michael V. Carter, president of Campbellsville University.

"May our mission be to pursue and share theological truth so that a hurting and dying world might know that all encompassing and powerful love God made manifest in Jesus Christ, His Son," he said.

The speaker for the dedication for the School of Theology was Dr. Roy C. Honeycutt, chancellor of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Honeycutt's addresss, entitled "Road Signs for a New Journey," spoke of the road signs one should observe when beginning a new venture.

"First, our road signs mark the best pathway for our travel into the future. Second, those guideposts establish a means of correcting mistaken directions we might take during our journey," he said.

Honeycutt concluded that, "Campbellsville University and the School of Theology are institutions focusing on academic excellence."

Prior to Honeycutt's address, Dr. James Pirkle, dean of Campbellsville's School of Education, welcomed on behalf of the academic community the School of Theology into the growing list of graduate programs being added to Campbellsville University.

"Welcome to the cooperative journey of extended opportunities for developing the mind, body and spirit," said Pirkle. "With your addition we look forward to the ongoing pursuit of unity, peace and love."

Dean of the School of Theology Walter C. Jackson said, "On behalf of the faculty and student body of the School of Theology, I am pleased to accept the challenge to carry forth the mission goals of this great Christian university."

A Time to Celebrate

Christmas Celebration

Campbellsville University's Family Christmas was the theme for the University's annual Christmas celebration. This year's celebration was held in the dining hall unlike previous years when it took place in Powell Athletic Center.

The evening started with a dinner provided by the Pioneer College Caterers staff. The night grew more personal as the Christmas Story was read and favorite carols were sung by the Chamber Choir. Afterwards, Christmas caroling took place.

Footloose and Fancy Free

Spring Formal

"And dance the night away..." The University's Spring Formal was a little different this year. The formal was held off campus at the Travel Lodge in Bowling Green. To some this seemed too far to travel, but for many the traveling was worth it.

The highlight of the night for many students was the awesome disc jockey. He not only played great dance music, but he also enhanced the music with a movie screen to show the videos that went along with the music.

Whatever the highlight was for each and every student, the night itself was an experience not to be forgotten.

A Spiritual Renewal

Fall Revival

So many times the word revival is used so loosely. Churches pencil one in, usually once a year. Here at the university, there is a fall revival and a spring revival. But what really makes a revival isn't in the title itself, but when we as a church "...seek their Father...with all of their heart and soul," 2 Chronicles 15:12.

This past fall, the students at Campbellsville University held their fall revival with seeking on their mind. The revival was held in the Student Activities Center Sept. 25-27 with the Rev. Tony Cecil preaching. It was open to the public.

Each night CU students performed skits and shared testimonies about what God had done recently in their lives. There was also a student-led praise band consisting of Rachel Pavy, Tara Taylor, Andrea "B-dra" Chappell, Ryan Singleton, Jody Sledge, Jay Holt, Josh Mushlock, Tim Harvey, Wayne Downs and Bruno Miranda.

Aside from the excitement displayed on stage, God really began to move in the lives of those attending. Each night around 250 to 300 people were in attendance with 75 decisions made, including two first-time decisions for Christ.

It was an exciting and amazing experience for everyone involved. True revival doesn't necessarily begin with a set date on a calendar, but within our hearts.

As Amos 5:6 says, we have to "Seek the Lord and live."

The afternoon ended with a benediction by Dr. Walter Jackson, dean of the School of Theology.

Quests

Academics

To learn. As people you want to learn many different things. Some people want to learn about communications, while others want to learn more about religion and how to spread the gospel.

At Campbellsville University, there are these options for students. CU is one of the few schools with a sports ministry major. Master's programs are also expanding.

Campbellsville University lets students expand their knowledge and use it in many activities. Music majors can take part in many ensembles while journalism majors can be a part of the school newspaper.

Academics is first priority at the university, and professors expell the knowledge needed for the students to leave with a good education.

Looking back at your college years, you will remember your friends, late nights at Bell's and laughter. But the person you become and the knowledge and skills you utilize in everyday life will be shaped by this institution. Academics is about challenges. Academics is the reason for pursuing a degree, and the university's pursuits are in line with your own.

Carnegie Elevates CU

President's Report

The Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education has announced its decision to elevate Campbellsville University from the "baccalaureate colleges–liberal arts" category to the "master's colleges and universities II" category, announced Dr. Michael V. Carter, president at Campbellsville.

"Colleges and universities categorized by Carnegie as being 'baccalaureate colleges–liberal arts' are undergraduate institutions that primarily place an emphasis on baccalaureate academic programs, particularly in the liberal arts," said Carter.

"But following Campbellsville's decision to move from a college to a university status in 1996," Carter said, "and because we offer a comprehensive academic program with graduate degree programs, the administration believed we should seek a change with our Carnegie classification."

And so with a petition made by Campbellsville University during the 2000 fall semester to the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education to change institutional classification, the university was elevated to the "master's colleges and universities II" level.

Carter said that the "master's colleges and universities II" classification is for those institutions, like Campbellsville University, that typically offer a wide range of baccalaureate programs and are committed to graduate education by offering several master's degree programs.

Currently, Campbellsville University offers master's degree programs in business, education, music, social science and theology. Plans are to add other master's degree programs based upon student demand, said Carter.

He also said that such a reclassification will impact the way Campbellsville University is ranked by such publications as U.S. News & World Report, Newsweek and Money among other leading national magazines and college directories.

"Moving to the 'master's colleges and universities II' category will have, in many ways, a profound effect on the way we market ourselves as a comprehensive, Christian university," Carter said.

Among other leading private colleges and universities classified as "master's colleges and universities II" are the University of Tampa (Fla.); Quincy (Ill.) University; and Pfeiffer University and Queens College, both in North Carolina. Other than Campbellsville, Cumberland College is the only private institution in Kentucky so classified.

Developed in 1970 by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education categorizes American colleges and universities based on educational mission and academic programs.

A New Institute

ESL Program

The year 2001 proved to not only be an exciting start to a new century, but to Campbellsville University as well. In the fall of 2000, the English as a Second Language Institute came into full affect. The late Dr. Yushin Yoo, formerly of Murray State University, was named as director of the Institute. Celeste Goodwin was named as program director and professor, while Bonita Phelps and Christine Sooriya Arachchi were hired as professors.

In order to come to Campbellsville University, students must have limited English skills and be willing to live here for eight weeks. While at the university, students are enrolled in ESL classes according to their English skills. There are six separate levels the students can be enrolled in: Beginning, High Beginning, Intermediate, High Intermediate, Advanced and High Advanced. Students on levels 1-4 (Beginning through High Intermediate) may take up to 21 hours, while students on level 5-6 (Advanced and High Advanced) may take one regular class that Campbellsville offers for their curriculum. Once the eight weeks is over, students either move up to the next level, move out of the program (for instance, they complete level 6) or they repeat the level they just went through. It's basically like high school. Students either pass and move on to the next grade, fail their grade and have to retake it again, or you graduate.

Many of the students come to America through the ESL program for the experience of learning the American culture and/or to advance their English skills through their studies. In just the first year that the ESL has existed at Campbellsville, students from Korea, Thailand and Asia have joined the Campbellsville University family.

A Tribute to Dr. Yoo

Campbellsville University first became associated with Dr. Yushin Yoo in November 2000 when he became the director of the newly formed English as a Second Language Institute at Campbellsville. But sadly, after only a few short months as director, Yoo died at 7 p.m. Feb. 15, 2001 at Taylor County Hospital. His death was due to complications from a sudden illness. He was 60.

Yoo previously taught at Murray State University, and upon retiring as the ESL director there, came to Campbellsville to fill the director's position for CU's ESL program. While serving as a professor here, Yoo helped bring in and take care of several Korean students staying for the eight weeks of ESL. It was apparent to those who knew Yoo how much he truly cared for not only the ESL Institute, but for his students as well. ESL Program Director Celeste Goodwin said, "Dr. Yoo was truly dedicated in both his Christian and professional life."

"Dr. Yoo had become a valued member of the university family," said Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, "and had already made a significant impact on our ESL program this semester, particularly with the partnership we had with several students from South Korea."

Faces, Everywhere Faces

People

The following is a brief picture of students, faculty and staff who were involved in our campus this school year.

Each person represents a story. Each person has in some way influenced someone else, and they have, in a large way, influenced our school. The influences are shown either through their participation in an activity, such as BSU or FCA, or a behind-the-scenes volunteer, like helping at phonathons. Each person contributes in his or her own way.

Each school year is different, mainly in part because of the student body. Each graduating class takes knowledge and wisdom away, but each incoming class brings in eagerness and enthusiasm.

You will bring your own memories to the pictures printed on these pages. Sometimes you meet a special friend who connects with you, and it makes your year remarkable. Sometimes you have a professor who really inspires you, and it may change your perspective. We only hope that we've captured the memories most important to you.

Impressions

Faculty/Staff

Faculty and staff are among some of the best aspects of the university. They are always ready to lend a helping hand or a listening ear.

Academic advising is one of the excellent resources offered. No matter what one's major, from business to theology to music, students will find exceptional advising in a Christian manner.

The campus exudes a warm, friendly atmosphere due mostly to the faculty and staff, continually smiling, passing it on to the students.

The grounds are kept beautiful year-round by the physical plant staff. They are on call around the clock for maintenance needs.

Faculty and staff want to be involved in more than just student's school work. They also enjoy knowing what goes on beyond the classroom.

Most important is the passing and sharing of knowledge between professors and students. Students receive through them, not only an education, but a Christian experience. The interaction between them is really what students take with them leaving impressions to last a lifetime.

Mobley Wins Election!

State Representative

In November 2000, Russ Mobley, associate professor of theater and speech, ran for the position of state representative and won. "This is unlike anything I've ever done," he said. "At this stage in my life...nearing retirement...it's certainly different."

Mobley will represent the 38,000 residents of Taylor and Adair counties. He now has the honor of going to the state legislature to represent the people and become a part of passing legislation.

Achieving in Fellowship

Clubs/Organizations

One of the greatest aspects of our university is the fellowship offered through our clubs and organizations. There is a multitude of interests represented through the organizations on campus. Each is led by a knowledgeable adviser. Club members participate in a variety of activities, including community service, parades and fund-raisers. Perhaps the most important factor about joining a club is the wisdom and friendships formed.

Alpha Rho Tau –art club
Bicycle Club –club for people interested in bike riding as a hobby
Billiards Club –club for billiard lovers
Broadcast Services –produces TV-4 and Campus Radio
BSU –Baptist Student Union

FCA members help lead others

FCA

Throughout the year, Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) has helped lead others. In the fall, a group of about 30 members went to the high school state convention and helped out by being counselors. In the spring, a group went to the FCA state college convention called the Song of Solmon Conference. During spring break, FCA sponsored a group that went on a mission trip to Panama City. This summer FCA members will be serving as counselors at FCA camps.

Future Business Leaders of America-Phi Beta Lambda (FBLA-PBL) is a non-profit educational association of students preparing for careers in business and business-related fields. The CU chapter sent six students to the Fall National Leadership Conference in Louisville. In April, members attended the state PBL competition and competed in various group and individual events to vie for a chance to compete at the National Leadership Conference in Orlando, Fla.

The group helped in a toy drive where donation boxes were set up in the library and post office. They helped deliver the toys to needy families across Taylor County.

Members also helped chaperone a dance at Campbellsville Middle School that was sponsored by the fire department and allowed the teachers to have the night off.

Campbellsville University Sigma Zeta/Math and Science Club participated in the the first ever Pie-in-the-Face contest. The lucky winner of the contest was Dr. Frank Cheatham. The group also took part in the Homecoming Parade and Family Weekend.

In addition, the group hosted the annual Sigma Zeta National Convention April 5-7, where about 50 Sigma Zeta chapters accross the country attended. During the convention, many presentations were given on various topics.

Vice Presidential Debate

On Oct. 5, 2000, Centre College, in Danville, Ky., hosted a vice presidential debate between candidates Dick Cheney and Joe Lieberman. Campbellsville University's College Republicans were able to attend this debate. The State Federation of College Republicans called the Campbellsville University Chapter and asked them to volunteer that day at the Kentucky School for the Deaf in Danville. When they arrived, they were asked to grab signs and ride to a bed and breakfast, the place where Cheney and his wife were going to speak.

While there, they were able to see Cheney before being sent back to the Kentucky School for the Deaf to help out. While at the Kentucky School for the Deaf, they were able to hand out T-shirts and signs for the debate. They weren't able to watch the debate from the inside, so once it was over, they made their way to the front in hopes of meeting Cheney. Once at the front, they were finally able to shake his hand. They also had the opportunity to meet some of his staff and Secret Service agents.

Building a Better Future

Kentucky Heartland Outreach

Once, there was a vision - to help the helpless — to repair homes of people who couldn't afford to do it themselves and to do it all for free. In 2000, that vision became a reality. Todd Parish was named director of the Kentucky Heartland Outreach, with Melissa Fletcher acting as assistant director as well as numerous work-study students from the university.

During the past year, KHO has covered over 25 counties in Kentucky with youth groups coming from all over the United States to work with KHO. While here, the youth and college students paint, scrape, dry wall, build roofs and basically repair anything that needs to be fixed on the homes.

In James 2:14-17, James tells us that, "What good is it, my brothers, if a man claims to have faith but has no deeds? Can such a faith save him? Suppose a brother or sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to him, 'Go, I wish you well; keep warm and well fed,' but does nothing about his physical needs, what good is it? In the same way, faith by itself, if not accompanied by action, is dead." And by helping to build physical things, things we all need, KHO is consequently helping to build relationships between the homeowners and Christ.

The Voice of the Students

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association consists of students, both resident and commuter, who are elected by their peers to serve as a connection to the administration.

"SGA is the voice of the students," said James Baggett, president. SGA holds monthly meetings of the senate where proposals are presented and when passed, are presented to the administration.

This year SGA focused on such topics as parking regulations, the need for ashtrays around campus, and the possibility of increasing the maximum number of credit hours covered by tuition from 16 to 18.

Each year, SGA sponsors many student activities such as Welcome Week, the Homecoming Dance, the Snowflake Ball, the Valentine Pageant, the Sweetheart Dance and the Spring Formal.

The Rainforest Café

BSU Dinner Theater

Every year the Baptist Student Union hosts a dinner theater for parents of Campbellsville University students, administration and board members. Dinner Theater is one of the main fund-raising operations put together to help raise money for the many mission trips that BSU takes throughout the year. Students not only perform, but act as servers, run the sound, lights, camera crew and whatever else needs to be done. The food, which consisted of a prime rib dinner, was provided by Pioneer College Caterers.

This year's theme was the Rainforest Café. Committee members Dana Jenkins, Brandon Carrier, Lori Hill, Adrianne Nichols, Jason Blankenship, Brittney Basham and Chris Barton found an order of worship that not only reflected the talents of the college students but also appeased the audience. CU's blacklight team, drama team, praise band, soloists, testimonies and key-note speaker Ed Pavy, director of campus ministries, held the audience captivated.

Seek the Lord and Live

BSU

This is what the Lord says to the house of Israel, "Seek Me and live." — Amos 5:4

This year the BSU focused on seeking the Lord through being a servant. It began during Welcome Week, with the BSU picnic where they provided dinner for the students. This continued on with the fall revival, care packages, spring revival and mission trips. The BSU meets weekly to worship God and hear speakers who challenge and uplift the group to better serve the Lord. This year they started a new ministry during weekly worship services called Servant Evangelism. Servant Evangelism is sharing the gospel with others while performing services for them. One such activity was campus-wide toilet cleaning. The students went into the residence halls and cleaned toilets while talking with residents about Christ. This ministry started in a small Bible study led by a BSU member and eventually spread through the whole BSU.

"The great thing about BSU is that it's not about the people. We mess up just as much as everyone else. It's about the worship of God and what He is going to reveal to us," said BSU member Jennifer Wilder.

Standing Tall

Sports

The sport of your choice, to you, isn't just a sport, it's more. There is something there that makes you want to do it. You may not be able to explain it, but it's your passion. It's your longing to be out on the field doing what you love.

To be out there with the people you call your teammates and often your best friends makes you feel exhilarated and alive. You feel if you can finish a two-hour workout, run many miles, make that hit or score that goal, you can do anything you set your mind to.

With many of those teammates, friendships will live for a lifetime because of those memories and the bonding of being on a team together. Who could forget all that hard work together and all those memories made throughout the years? They are unforgettable times.

With all this comes character. Character of knowing doing your best may not always be enough to win, but it should be enough in the long run to put a smile on your face and be able to say, "I did my best."

Many at this school have put forth their time and best effort for the love of their sport.

Tigers Go To Bowl

Football

FAITH-FOCUS-FINISH

This, for the 2000 Fighting Tiger squad, was the theme for a season that was extremely successful. Not only did the team win seven regular season games, they also received an invitation to the KWTO bowl held in Bolivar, Mo., where they played Baker University. This theme not only held true for being out on the field, but also in life, developing faith in Jesus, being able to focus on doing the right thing and then carrying that out.

The Tiger coaches gave credit to the 21 seniors who were dedicated to the team being successful. Those players started the work for making the team successful in the off season last year and they all played a part - from the most talented player to those who did not take the field.

There were a couple of turning points during the season, the first of which took place in the second game against Malone College. In that game, starting quarterback and captain Chad Deener was injured and was out of action for the season, but the team went on.

They fought back and came back to win that game. Another turning point was when the Tigers played Georgetown College, the #2 ranked team in the nation. While they lost this game, they held Georgetown to a lower score than usual.

While they could have quit knowing they weren't going to be conference champs, they didn't. The fight continued. They won their last game of the season, ending the season ranked 15th in the nation and receiving an invitation to the KWTO Bowl.

On Dec. 2, the Tigers traveled to Missouri where they played Baker University in a close game. They ended the season with a loss of 27-23.

"The year 2000 was a season in which the Fighting Tiger team fought hard and gave a tremendous effort in 60 minutes of all 11 football games played, while winning seven of them. A coaching staff is fortunate when they have a season like this and our thanks goes out to each and every player on our squad," said head coach Ron Finley.

Kickin' Into Action

Soccer

"This was definitely an up and down year for men's soccer," defender Carson Webb said. The team had numerous injuries and a 1-14-1. Senior Andy Rocha said, "It was a tough season because of two new coaches, lots of new players and a lack of experience on the team this year."

But despite the hardship men's soccer faced, the team pulled together for the end of the season, and as Webb put it, "We looked good."

After the Mid-South Conference Tournament, team members Lou Motshwane and Cesar Juca were named to the 2nd Team All-Conference, while David Hicklin was awarded with All-Conference Honorable Mention.

And while the men were warming up for their games, Campbellsville's women's soccer team was already on the field, kickin' things into action. Coach Abbie Whitley said, "As the season progressed, I saw nothing but improvement."

Like men's soccer, this team had numerous obstacles to face as well. The women took it in stride, though, and as Coach Whitley put it, "This was a good team, considering many of the girls had never played before."

Goalkeeper Andrea Michael said, "At the beginning of the season the team set a goal to improve every game - and I definitely think there was improvement."

After ending the season with a 2-15 record, two of the team members, Carol Gois and Julie Mattingly, were named to the Mid-South Conference 2nd Team All-Conference Team.

Season To Remember

Cross Country

This group of Campbellsville cross country runners can be remembered for proving that numbers aren't everything, according to coach Bill Moore, and no matter what, you can go out and be competitive.

Moore, who was in his first year as CU cross country coach, said, "I consider our success to be contributed to not only hard work, but also respecting, trusting and caring for each other. Each team member had a vital role to fulfill and they did it exceptionally well."

With just enough runners to have a team score, the Tigers were able to show their determined spirit throughout the season and end up as Mid-South Conference Runner up falling only to Cumberland College who was ranked 14th in the nation. The team placed three runners in the top ten at the conference meet, Jason Hayes, Patrick Baldwin and Joseph Hurtgen, putting them all on the Mid-South Conference team, while Hayes qualified for the national meet. Hurtgen, Hayes and Baldwin also were awarded Academic All-Conference.

Moore was voted Mid-South Conference Coach of the Year for the Tigers after the conference meet.

In other meets during the season, at Berea and the Southeast Classic at Berry College, the men showed exceptional drive and motivation, Moore said. At Berea, the Tigers were runner up out of nine teams, while at the Southeast Classic they placed 8th out of 20 teams with five of those teams ahead of them being ranked nationally. During the season Hayes was selected as Mid-South Runner of the Week twice.

The Lady Tigers showed improvement each and every week. At the conference meet, the women placed fifth out of eight teams. Team leader Kuluna Masden placed fourth at the meet putting her on the Mid-South Conference Team and qualifying her for the national meet. She was also selected as the Mid-South Runner of the Week once during the season.

Mary Beth England and Jessica Flener received Academic All-Conference awards.

"The only sad note of the entire season is the graduation of the three seniors Patrick Baldwin, Kuluna Masden and Susan Wheeldon," Moore said. "Their extreme dedication and motivation will be sorely missed."

Nationals

Nationals. To get to compete at nationals means you are one of the best.

At Campbellsville University, some teams and individuals are at the top, competing with the very best in their respective sport. This year both the men's and women's basketball teams advanced to their national tournaments, while two members of the men's and women's cross country teams advanced to national competition.

Jason Hayes and Kuluna Masden represented Campbellsville by competing in the national cross country meet in Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 18.

Hayes, who has competed in the national tournament for three consecutive years, had his best effort at the tournament by placing 27th out of over 250 runners in the race, giving him All-American honors.

Masden placed 125th out of about 250 runners in the womens's race putting her in the top half of the field. This was her second trip to take part in the national race.

The Lady Tiger basketball team won the regular season Mid-South Conference and was ranked 8th going into the national tournament. The Lady Tigers lost in the first round of the tournament to Oklahoma Baptist University's team.

The Tigers earned their second consecutive trip to the national basketball tournament. The Tigers lost in the first round; however, this was the first time that they earned a trip two years in a row.

Golf

The CU golf team made strides this spring, showing improvement in every match. The team will return two lettermen next season, Chris Cornelius and Marshall Ellington, along with four new signees. Chris Cornelius made the All-Tournament Team at the Transylvania Invitational. The team will make a run next season to be Mid-South Conference champs.

Lady Tigers Persevere

Women's Basketball

The Campbellsville University Lady Tigers opened their season ranked fifth nationally and was the number one seed in the Mid-South Conference.

During the season, the Lady Tigers won 23 games along with the MSC regular season championship with a 62-59 win over Georgetown. The final ranking of the season for the Lady Tigers was eighth in the nation. They lost in the finals of the conference tournament to Georgetown but ranked 11th in the NAIA National Women's Basketball Championships.

In the first round of the tournament, the Lady Tigers lost to Oklahoma Baptist. Coach Donna Wise said, "Our kids were disappointed in the loss to OBU but that doesn't overshadow a fine season. Capturing the MSC regular season championship in one of NAIA's toughest conferences speaks volumes to the commitment of this team."

Receiving honors this year were: Kristin Patton, Whitney Lee, Sara Higdon and Heather Hood.

Patton was named NAIA First Team All-American, MSC Player of the Year, MSC Academic All-Conference and MSC Player of the week twice. She also joined the 1,000-point club.

Lee was named KODAK First Team All-American, MSC First Team and MSC Academic All-Conference.

Higdon became the career three-point leader at CU, joined the 1,000-point club and was named MSC All-Conference Honorable Mention.

Hood was an NAIA All-American Scholar Athlete, MSC All-Conference Honorable Mention and Academic All-Conference.

DeSensi, Kevin Aldridge, Terry West, Nathan Rhodes, Donnie Hensley, Thorsteinn Hunfjord, Casey Simpson, Ben Davis, manager Daniel Pharris, and assistant coach Montrelle Irvin.

The 2000-2001 school year was an exciting one for Tiger basketball. After head coach Travis Ford left late last season, assistant coach Keith Adkins took over as head coach. Aside from a new coach, the 20-13 Tigers qualified for the NAIA National Championship Tournament, a goal which Adkins is pleased that they met.

"One of our goals this season was to go to the national tournament, which we did," Adkins said. "This is also the first time the Tigers have qualified to go back to the tournament two years in a row."

Aside from the tournament, the Tigers had one of their own, senior Marcus Williams, make 3rd Team NAIA All-American, as well as making the 1st Team All-MSC. Donnie Hensley and Marcio Kardosh also made the Honorable Mention for the All-MSC team. The Tigers also established and won the "Lou Cunningham Classic."

After a great season with the Tigers, what can we expect from them in 2001-2002? Adkins said he expected his team "to maintain a competitive program and to keep going back to the national tournament."

Cheerleaders

"We worked really hard this year to get where we're at considering all the people who left. The team really made it easy to get along," said Lisa Kleinjan. This year the cheerleaders competed in the Mid-South Cheerleading Championships. Overall, they scored well coming in sixth overall and scoring third and fourth in partner stunts and second in mascots.

Coach Donna Pierce said, "They did very well and were an excellent group. They are a talented squad, and I'd put them up against any squad in the conference."

This is Pierce's last year as coach of the Tiger cheerleaders. "It's been fun. This is a very hard-working group, and I'm going to miss it. I've made some wonderful friendships through it," said Pierce. This was her 11th year as coach.

Tigers Take it to the Net

Men's & Women's Tennis

This year, Coach Leigh Sullivan, currently in his second year at CU, said he worked hard to prepare his men's and women's teams for the upcoming year. Both teams struggled after losing several top players from the previous years. The men's team had two returning players, while the women had three, making both teams very young.

"This year I feel everyone worked extremely hard to improve their individual games. I feel that everyone was successful in developing both singles and doubles strategies for the 2002 season next spring. I think those returning next year have come a long way and have improved immensely in the past year," said Sullivan.

At the MSC Tournament, Nick Cook and Shannon Thomas received honorable mention All-Conference Singles awards. Sherry Tilsley, Christy Roman, Katie Pennock and Shannon Thomas took home Academic All-Conference honors as well.

"I look forward to building on this year's improvements with the new incoming players in the fall. This should produce a stronger team," said Sullivan.

A Winning Record

Volleyball

The 2000 Lady Tigers came back stronger than ever, according to first-year coach Shannon Wathen. Through determination and prestige they welcomed six new freshmen to the team, she said.

Wathen, along with the Lady Tigers, set a record for most wins in a season. With a 18-12 record, Wathen said, "It's the first winning record in the history of Campbellsville University's volleyball season, since 1993."

Michelle Hume was recognized as First Team All-Conference, April Lucuis was named to Second Team All-Conference, Katie Allena and Natalie Richardson were recognized with honorable mentions, Greta Staub, Natalie Richardson and April Lucius were also named Academic All Conference.

In hopes of building on to this year's great season, the Lady Tigers will return in 2001 with confidence and determination, according to Wathen.

Expressions of the Soul

Creative Minds

Vocal and instrumental performance, spoken and written word, all of these are a part of the way we express our passion from the inner soul.

Creative processes manifest themselves in many forms. Creative expression sounds through many facets of campus life. Our campus offers many vocal and instrumental outlets. From marching to jazz to opera to handbells, we present a repertoire of opportunities for students who are interested in expressing themselves musically.

The spoken word provides a strong emotional connection between the speaker and the audience. Our school offers many options for one's dramatic interests. Plays, operas and musicals are performed yearly at the university's theater and recital hall.

Another aspect of creativity is the written word. Our school produces many printed publications such as the Campus Times, which is the school newspaper, and Connections, a collection of literary works by students.

Some of these publications are clearly creative while others hold true to the events, thoughts and the opinions of the students on campus.

Greater Tuna

Fall Play

Johnny Warren and Steven Bishop were the stars of the University's fall play, "Greater Tuna." They each played ten roles of all sorts, including, men, children, women and even animals.

"Greater Tuna," is a comedy about a rural town in Texas. The town is called Tuna, Texas, and the characters of this play are meant to be played by only two characters, making the play even more hilarious to watch.

The 2000-2001 school year brought about many changes for the campus newspaper. The Campus Times covers top stories and issues that deal directly with CU students. It is published monthly and is delivered to students via their campus mailboxes.

New full-time assistant professor of journalism, Stan McKinney, took over the reigns as adviser. Susan Wheeldon was named editor for the spring semester, while various other students served as reporters and photographers. Along with the students helping out, several members of the administration helped support the paper and bought some of the much needed equipment, something McKinney is very grateful for.

There were a few changes in the paper this year. One of the first things the staff decided to do was change the spelling of the paper from The Campus Tymes, to The Campus Times. Also, in the last issue of the 2001 school year, color photographs were added.

There were several winners this year in photography, art work, prose, poetry and foreign language poetry. Shara Lee Bower won first place and the spot for her artwork to grace the cover of Connections for the 2001 edition. Jennifer Cansler took home second place in art work, while Todd Wiencek received third place. Eric Brockman and Marques Cunningham both received honorable mentions. The Jungle Book

The Children's Play

This year's children's play, The Jungle Book, is about a little boy named Mowgli and his adventures living in the jungle. Mowgli was out with his father one day when his father was killed.

The rescuers couldn't find Mowgli and assumed the man-eating tiger, Shere Khan, had killed him. Mowgli was left in the jungle and a pack of wolves found him and raised him as one of their own. His friends, Baloo the bear, Begheera the panther, and Kaa the snake, taught him the "Jungle Law."

One day the animals heard that Shere Khan was back after being banished from the jungle, so they had a meeting to decide what was to be done with him. Shere Khan showed up and challenged Father Wolf's ability to be the King of the Jungle.

Shere Khan tells the animals that, unlike Father Wolf, he isn't afraid of anything and that is what being a good king is all about.

While out hunting one day, Father Wolf misses his kill. Shere Khan uses this as further evidence that he should be king.

Father Wolf decides to step down as king and appoints Mowgli as his heir. Because of this, Shere Khan is determined to get rid of Mowgli. Eventually, Shere Khan's fear of fire slips out and Mowgli uses this to his advantage by stealing it from the village and chasing Shere Khan out of the jungle.

OOOOklahoma!!

Spring Musical

This year's spring musical, Rogers and Hammerstein's Oklahoma, was full of colorful characters and costumes. This musical was performed at CU 20 years ago.

The story is about a girl who must decide between two suitors who want to take her to a social. Laurey, an Oklahoma farm girl, is courted by the boisterous cowboy, Curly, and by the obsessive farm hand, Jud Fry. Laurey accepts the invitation to the social from Jud to protect Curly. She is afraid Jud may try to harm Curly if she went with him.

Curly comes to her rescue, though, and saves her from the unwanted advances of Jud. This act wins over Laurey's heart, and she falls in love with Curly. The night before their wedding, a drunken Jud starts a fight with Curly.

During the fight he falls on his own knife and is killed. The deputy believes that Curly should be arrested and tried for murder, but he is outvoted by the townspeople.

Finally, Curly and Laurey ride off into the sunset towards their honeymoon and a new life together.

Brazilian Quartet

Nuances

Nuances is a Brazilian quartet made up of professional musicians from Brazil. They began performing together when three of the four members came to Campbellsville to complete their master's degree. Heidi Ximenes, violinist, the fourth member, was in Campbellsville working as a CU adjunct faculty member. When asked how the group began, Alexandre Lopes said, "Heidi chose us."

The other members of the group include: Sanny Souza, cellist; Alexander Lopes, who plays the voila; and Edilene Lopes, violinist.

The group performs on campus and at different functions in the community, including recitals, churches and schools.

Something to Talk About

New Horizon/Reflections

They came together during a Thanksgiving celebration held by their pastor. He wanted to get a quartet together. Zach Rice recalls, "I didn't think we would sing past that, but God had different plans."

Rice said his influence was, "growing up with parents in the music ministry." As friends attending the same university, New Horizon converged to become what they call an "intergenerational ministry." This ministry uses music as the instrument to preach the Word of God to the young and the old. New Horizon's ministry is "Bridging the Gap" blending the traditional, old style gospel with a newer, polished sound that speaks to all ages.

The title of their CD is "Bridging the Gap." New Horizon is also online at www.star-studios.com.

The members of Reflections have been together for the past two years. They plan to be together for one more year in hopes of later pursuing a career in the "education mission field."

Reflections and New Horizon will be traveling together for two weeks in the summer.

Thief of Hearts

Opera

"You know my motto. 'Who is true to only one is untrue to all others.' I could embrace an infinity of women and still have love left over." This quote from Mozart's opera Don Giovanni sums up the main character, a seducer of any type of woman. Don Giovanni was this year's School of Music opera, directed by Dr. Mark Bradley. The opera is based on Don Juan, the notorious debaucher.

> "I could embrace an infinity of women and still have love left over."
> –Don Giovanni

Don Giovanni is a blend of comedic and dramatic opera. Don Giovanni is a charming yet merciless nobleman possessing an insatiable sexual appetite. He uses his comical servant, Leporello, in many of his schemes. Leporello, on the other hand, wishes he could be in his master's place.

The opera ends with more drama than comedy. "Don Giovanni is asked to repent of his sins, and when he refuses to give up his lifestyle of women, he is dragged to hell by black spirits," said Bradley. He said the characters end with the refrain, "Such is an evildoer's end; death is the just reward for a misspent life."

The university handbell choir performed at many events throughout the year including at the Kentucky Baptist Music Conference Annual Meeting in November.

In February, they performed at the Gala Banquet of the Southern Division Music Educators National Convention and Kentucky Music Educators Association.

In March, the group performed at the Barnlot Theatre in Edmonton, along with going on tour. They toured along with the chorale for eight days throughout Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky.

The group gave performances at one state convention and one state and regional convention, where all the presidents for those states that make up a region were there and able to watch.

Nevalyn Moore, instructor of handbells, said, "This has really been a phenomenal group. We only had five people returning from last year and four of the new members had never done handbells before. They have done an unbelievable job on the difficulty of the music and working together."

Let's Jazz!

Jazz Ensembles

The jazz ensembles have had a year of new beginnings. Jazz Band was directed by adjunct faculty member Lisa Michaels while the vocal jazz group, "A Bend in the Road," was directed by instructor Dr. Tim Glasscock, both new members to the faculty.

The Jazz Band toured high schools in central Kentucky in the fall, while the vocal Jazz Ensemble stayed closer to home. Together, the ensembles presented fall and spring concerts and a convocational concert.

Jazz Band performs standard swing tunes and funk tunes in their concerts, as well as other musical-numbers. Vocal jazz, on the other hand, performed a cappella music and madrigals. Both ensembles include a well-rounded repertoire.

"If I could do it all day, I would," said Lisa Michaels.

Marching to Another Beat

Tiger Marching Band

The Tiger Marching Band began its season in mid-August, memorizing drill and difficult music, long before the campus was officially open to students. By their first performance, the band really got the campus swinging with its 2000 program that included the tunes "Rock This Town," "Birdland," "Don't Get Around Much Anymore" and "Big Noise From Winnetka." This was a show designed for pure fun, and it seemed to accomplish just that for performers and audiences alike.

Assistant Director of Bands Timothy Michaels directed this year for the first time. The band performed at all six Fighting Tigers' home games, plus appeared as exhibition band at Taylor County and Muhlenburg County High School marching band contests and at the KMEA Class A Regional Band Competition at Butler County High School. The band finished the 2000 season by accompanying the football team to the KWTO Bowl in Bolivar, Mo.

Maple Trail Staff

When you think of yearbook, your mind conjures up images of stressed people, deadlines, millions of photographs, and quite possibly croppers and those little red wax pencils. This yearbook is no different from all that. But it is unique in many ways.

Most of the staff this year were completely new to yearbook. They learned well and quickly. Most of the photographers were new as well, with only one experienced student photographer on board to help them learn the ropes. Despite these obstacles, the staff worked together to put together a yearbook that will preserve your best memories of life at Campbellsville University.

I would like thank the advisers, Joan and Debrah, for putting up with me. You have both listened to me gripe and moan countless times. You also put up with the chaotic mess we called the "yearbook office" - especially around deadline time, which was four times this year. Thanks to all members of the staff. It took much energy and time to produce this yearbook, but we made it!

Thanks to you, students, faculty and staff for helping us complete the Maple Trail. This book is, of course, dedicated to you.

Commencement

Campbellsville University graduated 233 students Saturday, May 5 on the university's football field. Campbellsville's graduates included those receiving: 167 bachelor of science degrees; 16 bachelor of arts degrees; 15 master of arts in education degrees; 13 associate of science degrees; 11 bachelor of social work degrees; three bachelor of music degrees; three master of music in education degrees; one master of arts in music degree; and four master of theology degrees. This was the first year for the awarding of the master of theology degree and the master of arts in music degree.

Wanda S. Lee, executive director/treasurer of the Women's Missionary Union in Birmingham, Ala., received an honorary doctor of public service degree.

Lee was also the commencement speaker. She told the graduates that their generation is the "brightest and best gift to the awaiting world."

Before the commencement ceremony, a new tradition, the Senior Walk, was begun when the graduates gathered in front of Montgomery Library and walked around campus for a last walk together.

Katie Wallen, senior class president, explained that a rock had been placed in front of the library as the beginning of the walk.

Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, congratulated the seniors.

Above: Dr. Frank Cheatham, Darel Barnett, Rachel Pavy and Dr. Michael V. Carter stand together after being presented Mr. and Miss Campbellsville 2001. Miss Campbellsville, Rachel Pavy, and Mr. Campbellsville, Darel Barnett, stand in front of the Campbellsville University sign.

Mr. and Miss Campbellsville 2001 are Darel Dwaine Barnett and Rachel Renee Pavy.

Barnett, a biology major, was in the jazz ensemble for five years, marching band for four years, Student Ambassador two years and BSU praise band three years. He was also in Sigma Zeta for three years, SGA four years and was parliamentarian this year and was the university's Democrats chapter president. Barnett received the biology award and Rotary Award at Honors and Awards Day. He also graduated summa cum laude.

"I have been blessed to have had many great opportunities for involvement and service at Campbellsville, and to be named Mr. Campbellsville University is truly a great honor. Campbellsville University is a unique place because our environment fosters both spiritual and academic growth. I am thankful for this commitment, and I pray that this academic stewardship will always continue," Barnett said.

Pavy was a member of the softball team, Reflections, MENC state secretary, FCA, BSU praise band leader, concert chorus, university chorale president this year and secretary last year, chamber choir, opera and leader of the Cleveland mission trip. Pavy received the talent award at Honors and Awards Day and graduated magna cum laude.

"It was a shock to me, but I was very honored. Campbellsville University is a place where I came to be a part of a family and I found that because Jesus Christ was the center of campus," said Pavy.

The 2001 Maple Trail was published by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. One thoursand one hundred fifty of volume 73 of the Maple Trail were printed for the students, faculty, staff, and friends of Campbellsville University. The book is an 8 1/2 x 11 containing 184 pages of your precious memories.

The cover is hard-bound for dutiful protection of the pages inside. The color is gray 987. The design and copy is white 911 silkscreen in Malibu font. The Harvard rule is set at 12 points.

Headline specifications are 48 point Malibu; subheads are 24 point Malibu Italic; photo credits are 8 point Times Roman; body copy is 12 point Rinna; captions are 10 point Times Roman; and folios are 10 point Malibu. Panel page copy is 8 point Rinna.

Creative Minds had different headline and subhead specifications: headlines are set to 48 point Muse Script and subheads are set to 24 point Finesse.

Clubs and Organizations had special specifications as well. Headlines are 48 point Reporter and subheads are 24 point Reporter Italic.

Photographs were taken by the Office of Public Relations and Marketing, except where stated in the photo credit.

The yearbook was created by work-study positions in the Office of Public Relations and Marketing, with the exception of two performance grant positions, one intern, and one volunteer. There are two yearbook advisors, Joan C. McKinney and Debrah Moon, who oversee everything.

The yearbook was created on the Ultravision software program, and then sent in to Taylor on 3.5″ disks.

Student classifications were verified by Paul Dameron and the questions were confirmed by the Office of Student Records. They were very helpful when I would run down with every new unidentified picture.

A special thanks to our yearbook representative Hugh Black, not only for his candy and doughnuts, but for proofing our pages with such a charming and cheerful manner.

Thanks to the entire Taylor technical support center in Dallas, and also to Jerry Steely, our customer representative in Dallas.

I cannot leave out the Office of Computer Information Services office. We have called them at least once a day, every day this year and they have fixed our computers when they have crashed, boomed, slid, collided, hurled and, in general, done everything imaginable.

I would quickly like to thank my husband, Wesley, and my son, Ashe, for putting up with me through deadlines and the time I've spent away from you guys working.

The yearbook is, of course, a free publication to all full-time students.
